Answers:

1> Silver Bullet - Silver is said to be a 'pure' metal which is why it is used in many rites and ceremonies. To kill a werewolf you can shoot him with a silver bullet or stab him with a silver object.

2> Stake - Stakes were first introduced by Bram Stoker, inventor of Dracula. They have since been used in many vampire films and series, though the terms of their use varies. Other popularized methods of vampire slaying include decapitation and burning them to a pile of ashes.

3> Bats - Bram Stoker's Dracula featured the first transformation of a vampire into a bat. Vampires and bats were often associated even before Stoker's novel because of the similar characteristics of the legendary creatures and the blood sucking Vampire bat.

4> During a full Moon - Full moons have been widely used in film, comic books and television as the time at which a werewolf's transformation into animal form occurs, completely out of their control. Modern film has challenged that, allowing werewolves to change form as they please or when angered.

5> They receive a phone call foretelling their death in several days - Viewers of the tape in the 2002 film 'The Ring'- an American adaptation of the Japanese horror film entitled 'Ringu'- would immediately receive a phone call telling them they will die in seven days. The only way to avoid their fate was to solve the tape's mystery.

6> Ed Gein - Ed Gein inspired 'Texas Chainsaw Massacre' writer/director Tobe Hooper, who based the chainsaw wielding Leather Face on Gein's infamous means of murder (making masks from human faces and fashioning furniture from bones).

7> Revenge on his own murderers - Freddy Krueger, played by actor Robert Englund, murders the children of the Elm Street community because he himself was murdered by the parents of the community after being acquitted of charges for child murders.

8> By urinating on the floor in front of guests - Blair's character - Regan - disrupts her mother's party when she urinates on the floor, shocking guests who are unaware of her growing possessed state.

9> Halloween - Halloween was one of the first films of the slasher genre and though it has gained iconic status at the time of filming the cast wore their own clothing, including star actress Jamie Lee Curtis who spent less than $100 on her wardrobe at a JC Penny store.
